TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

One of the most gorgeous flowers in existence today! For the best results start the tubers inside in flats in February or March. Move outside in large pots or baskets or to the open ground when danger of frost is over. Use fish meal or other suitable fertilizer for feeding to produce the largest flowers. For mildew, if you live in a very damp climate, dust with Miller's Spradusto or other spray containing Captan. Complete growing instructions are included with each order.

DAYLILY CULTURE

DAYLILIES are of the easiest culture being practically without pests and diseases. They bloom very freely and many of them at a time when other flowers are out of season. After they become established they will grow without fertilizer and with a minimum of watering. However a good organic fertilizer and watering during the dry season are of benefit in increasing the size of the flowers. Daylilies in the past were predominantly yellow. Now in addition to the many shades of yellow, they come in dainty pinks and coral, in many shades of rose, red and purple, as well as two-toned, bi-colored and with various rings, blotches and other contrasting markings. Daylily culture has become a fascinating hobby to many people who collect and grow and in some instances hybridize, there being some 5,000 named varieties at the present time with thousands of un-named seedlings in the trial stage. No matter how few or how many you decide to plant you will not be disappointed. They are the most dependable of flowering plants and always make a satisfactory showing.

TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

SUPERIOR WEST COAST STRAIN

FANCIEST, NAMED TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

To those of you who enjoy the newest and finest we offer the following named varieties.... Supplies of these very special strains are strictly limited, so order early. Prices on all varieties listed below: Each $1.00 3 for $2.75, Dozen, $10.00.

RED TRIUMPH - Exceptionally large, beautifully ruffled Double Camellia type flowers with velvety textured, ruby-red petals.

STARS AND STRIPES - A prolific plant with a tendency toward the Multiflora characteristics, carrying a profusion of brick red flowers daintily speckled white.

Tuberous begonias are growing in popularity each year because more and more people are finding that the luxuriant, expensive-looking plants are not so difficult to grow as they had imagined. Begonias are ideal in any shady spot in your yard, or in pots, hanging baskets and porch boxes.

Large size tubers: 45¢ each 10 for $4.00

DOUBLE CAMELLIA - This is the most popular type, having large double flowers resembling a camellia or rose. Colors are white, pink, rose, yellow, blush, orange, dark red, salmon, and American Beauty.

DOUBLE PICOTEE - Flowers of the same beautiful form as the camellia type but the color is two-toned, the center light, the picotee edge pink, salmon or red.

CARNATION TYPE - Full double type with each petal fringed like a carnation. Colors: White, pink, yellow, scarlet and salmon.

DOUBLE ROSEBUD - Exquisite flowers resembling perfect rosebuds, with beautiful two-toned pastel shade coloring. Mixed colors.

CRESTED TYPE - Beautiful show type plants with large, strongly crested blooms. Mixed colors only.

MARMORATA - Double camellia flowered begonias beautifully mottled red and white.

MULTIFLORA - An extremely free-blooming variety. Many bright colors, in mixture.

HANGING BASKET TYPE - A very attractive type having double flowers similar to the Camellia type but smaller. They should be planted in window boxes, hanging baskets, pots on pedestals, or a shady place in rock garden. They are very showy, covered with masses of blooms. Colors: White, pink, salmon, yellow, scarlet and orange.

TUBERS in the above types and colors are the largest size, averaging 2 inches and over in diameter.
